“Cyber Security Awareness”

As technology becomes more and more deeply integrated into our lives, we become more and more dependent on it. But this dependence makes us vulnerable if technology fails. In today's world, it's important that technology is available, protected and secure. If not, we will suffer consequences in our daily lives. Computer Security, also known as Cyber security or IT security, becomes one of the most areas of concern across the world. There is a need for the protection of our Information and Communication systems from all potential threats.

Cybersecurity is the body of technologies, processes, and practices designed to protect networks, computers, and data from attack, damage, and unauthorized access. Cybersecurity training teaches professionals and common users to spot vulnerabilities, fend off attacks, and immediately respond to emergencies.
